ABSTRACT

Hybrid proteins associating a membrane protein with an ion channel which is not naturally coupled to said membrane protein and their use as electrical sensors of said membrane protein (receptor, transporter) activity, for studying said membrane proteins, and for detecting and screening molecules of interest.